

The Quantum World

The Propositions of the Quantum World

- Life has no interest in your losing.
- Life will not give you something you cannot handle.

- Life will always give you everything you need to handle what you are confronted with.
- Life will always support you in it's way.
- If you say you can't, Life will agree with you.
- It is your existing opinions, belief systems and points of view that are keeping you where you are. There is a lot more of course and if you can start off by working with these you make a huge difference to both the way you look at and handle your life.